Tinley Plane Crash Badly Hurts Pilot

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

STOP IT.—Some time ago this column quoted the head of the Teamsters union in opposition to the receiving of 400,000 "displaced persons" into the country from Europe. Figures were given showing the reluctance of other countries to receive those persons. Now, a drive is to be made to rush through Congress a bill permitting the administration to accept the 400,000. If you love your country, if you have respect for the future welfare of the children of the country, tell your congressmen and the two United States Senators from your state TO TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION TOWARDS KILLING THE VICIOUS BILLS.

BAD MATERIAL.—The so-called "displaced" persons are not good material for this country. They are the product of hatreds, religious and racial, and they would bring into this country their hot passions of hatreds and spew out upon the nation the viciousness born of their own degraded way of living.

BE OPEN-MINDED.—You may oppose the reception of these people and yet remain open-minded about the subjects of their hatreds. We have enough religious hatreds in this country now—too much, in fact a whole lot too much. To admit 400,000 ambassadors of trouble would be to overload our country with trouble. It is time that we take steps to stop foreign hatreds from using this country as a springboard for putting their hatreds into practical operation against other countries.

TIME TO BE AMERICAN.—Yes, it is time that we take time to be American. We have no business projecting ourselves into the hatreds and ambitions of every clique in the world that may want what is its neighbors and we have no business receiving ambassadors of trouble in wholesale lots. Even a few may mean a lot of trouble. And remember this: proponents of the wholesale admission of great masses unwanted in other countries is only a beginning. As soon as the 400,000 are received, the same highly paid agitators for breaking down our protective barriers will continue their propaganda for another crowd—and they will run into the millions. It's time to be American. It's time to tell President Truman and any other politicians who may believe that such actions will earn enough votes in a few highly concentrated population areas to carry several big states in the November election, that for every vote gained by their action they will lose five. Let's stop the thing now, in behalf of the best interests of the people of the United States. The more American we remain, the more benefit we will be to a torn and weary world.

BE NOT SQUEAMISH.—Do not be squeamish about "racial hatred" charges that may be hurled against you when you protest dumping hundreds of thousands of unassimilable people into our population. We in this country on the whole are as free from race prejudice as it is possible to be in our imperfect state of civilization. It's simply that the displaced hordes will create disharmony, unintentionally, but surely. And we have enough of that now. The world has millions of millions of unused acres where they could go, and where as a nation we could give of our wealth to help them get started. Let the propagandists work on this plan instead of trying to undermine the wealth and welfare of this country.

BE QUICK.—You will have to be quick in this. Hundreds of thousands are being spent to sway the Congress. Vast hordes are paid to agitate for the importing of the hundreds of thousands. We must act decisively and at once to prevent our representatives in Washington from being forced by a manufactured public opinion into a crippling action.

Poultry Ills Fail To Respond To Ultraviolet Rays

In carefully directed scientific experiments, the use of ultraviolet lamps failed to stop the spread of virus diseases in poultry houses.

These experiments dimmed earlier hopes that germicidal rays might become an effective weapon against deadly infections in housed poultry flocks.

The investigators, Drs. P. P. Levine and M. S. Hofstad, in a research project of the veterinary college at Cornell University, studied the effects of ultraviolet lamps installed in a three-story poultry house. Although the rays blanketed the interior of the building, they were ineffective in preventing or stopping an outbreak of Newcastle disease that spread among chickens on all three floors. The Cornell doctors also found the rays to be unsatisfactory against infectious bronchitis.

The lamps killed some of the disease germs suspended on dust particles in the air, but they did not destroy those in the droppings or on litter.

Wife Comes From East; at Bedside

Following erratic maneuvering over an area from around Palos to Tinley Park, a converted AT-6 plane crashed in Tinley Park Monday, sending its pilot to Oak Forest infirmary, where he has remained most of the time, until yesterday, in a coma.

The pilot was Mr. S. Jalet of Norwalk, Conn. He was flying a converted AT-6 plane owned by Clifford Stanley of Washington, D. C., according to papers found on his person by state police officers.

The plane was first observed in erratic flying in the vicinity of Palos Park, where observers reported that it reversed its direction several times, then headed toward Tinley Park.

Flying over Tinley Park at about 1500 feet altitude, the ship appeared to some observers to be out of control. According to an eyewitness' statement, the plane barely escaped the roof of the Bechtel buildings, along the railroad tracks, then ascended, and came to earth near 187th street and Harlem avenue, where it reportedly bounded into the air about 20 feet, again landing with a crash after its motor had been shorn from the fuselage by hitting a tree.

The flyer was quickly taken from the cockpit, in an unconscious condition, by Mark Talmadge, Norman Robinson, and Henry Bormet, and then, assisted by Police Chief C. A. Steinhagen, Pilot Jalet was rushed to Oak Forest infirmary, where it was found that he was suffering from two cuts over his eyes, one on his chin, and a four-inch gash on his leg. He was unable to answer questions for some hours, but papers indicated his address and Mrs. Jalet was summoned from New York City and arrived early Tuesday.

Mrs. Jalet was unable to supply definite information about her husband's trip, except that he was scheduled to leave Louisville, Ky., Monday, for a western destination. Nor could she give any information concerning the ship, which records carried by the injured pilot indicated belonged to the Washington man.

The condition of the injured pilot was said to be critical, and his wife is remaining by his bedside.

The theory has been advanced that the pilot was ill and unable to control his plane, resulting in the erratic maneuvering prior to the crash.

Attorney General To Enter Campaign

In his statement, announcing his intention to seek renomination in the Republican primary on April 13, the attorney general pointed to the record of his past seven years in the office as chief cause for his decision to run again.

I feel that much effective work and valuable service to the state remains to be done. In the next four years, and I am convinced that experienced administration will clearly be needed."

Need Income Tax Return Help? Better File Early

John T. Jarecki, collector of Internal Revenue, First district of Illinois, urges all taxpayers needing assistance in filing their 1947 income tax returns to visit the nearest office of the collector as early in the year as possible. Due to a reduction in force there will be fewer deputy collectors to assist taxpayers this year, and, therefore, the service the collector's office will be able to give will be severely curtailed.

CIRCUS TO SHOW IN TINLEY SCHOOL GYMNASIUM FRIDAY, JANUARY 23

Tinley Park Teen Age Activities Groups have announced an ambitious program of entertainment for the area on Saturday, January 24.

The youngsters have arranged for a circus, no less, and in true circus style, there will be two performances. Place: Tinley Park school auditorium.

They call the circus "a winter frolic in summer sawdust," and seem to mean it, since the announcement says trained horses, monkeys, dogs, and ponies will prance and leap on an especially designed ring covering the floors. Cowboys and cowgirls are to spin ropes and do all the other things belonging to a circus.

But, before we get away from "what's what" in the circus, we must say that a lion-training act also is on

Named Chief Deputy Coroner Month Ago

Dr. Gregory Carey, chief deputy coroner of Will county, has announced that he will be a candidate in the April Republican primary for the office of county coroner.

Announcement of the candidacy was made one month after Dr. E. A. Kingston, coroner for 25 years, appointed Dr. Carey chief deputy coroner. In making the appointment, Dr. Carey expressed the conviction that the office can be filled satisfactorily only by a medical doctor.

Dr. Kingston has announced his intention of retiring from the office he has held so long at the end of his present term. Following this announcement, Dr. Carey announced his candidacy.

Dr. Carey, who is 38, has lived in Joliet through the past 30 years, and graduated from grade school and high school in Joliet. He graduated from the University of Iowa and took his medical training in Rush Medical college in Chicago. He served three and a half years in World War II as a surgeon in a field hospital in the European theater.

He is an active member of Elks, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, and Eagles. He is associated with his two brothers, Dr. John F. Carey and Dr. J. Campbell Carey, in the practice of medicine in the Woodruff clinic building in Joliet.

AAA Committeemen Set 1948 Program

On Wednesday of last week, members of the county committee and community committeemen representing every township in the county met at the Farm Bureau building in Joliet to develop plans for operating the 1948 agricultural conservation program and more specifically to select the practices to be offered in the county during the coming year.

It was determined that the following practices were the ones most needed to promote soil and weather conservation in the county:

1. Constructing and establishing sod waterways.
2. Contouring intertilled crops.
3. Contour farming of drilled or close-sown crops.
4. Pasture establishment or improvement.
5. Green manure crops.
6. Liming materials.
7. Fertilizers (raw rock phosphate).

Chairman Gaskill of the local county AAA committee stated that every farmer should carefully review the selected practices to determine those most needed on his farm and those which he expects to carry out during the coming year. "It is our desire," he said, "to give every producer a chance to participate in the 1948 program and we will try to keep every one informed of all details of operation as they are worked out. The first step, however, is for each farmer to formulate a good conservation program on the basis of the practices which will be offered."

Oysters, crabs, terrapin, clams and fish are the leading seafood production of Maryland.

CIRCUS TO SHOW IN TINLEY SCHOOL GYMNASIUM FRIDAY, JANUARY 23

The circus actually is to be put on by trained circus people. They are all professionals from the "big tops." It was not announced, but it is expected that even crackerjack and the other trimmings will be there, too.

The circus is the Ayres and Kathryn Davies show, and will include, it was stated, a sensational knife-throwing act in which the target is encircled with thrown knives, known as "the whirl of death."

Circus hours: 2:30 in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening. Box office: wherever you see a school pupil or a member of the Teen Age Activities Group. Of course, tickets will be also available at the door preceding circus hours.

Intimate Phone Call Goes On Air in Freak Mixup

One of the queer tricks played by magnetic storms is to cause a conversation on a telephone line to jump to a live radio line near by and be broadcast without the knowledge of the two persons talking.

This occurred in New York a short time ago when such a connection caused an intimate phone call to be heard on a coast-to-coast program.

CANADA LIFTS ATOMIC CURTAIN . . . Canada's national research council's 20-million-dollar atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., where security is enforced by armed guards, is opening new vistas in the realm of physical, chemical and biological research. Production of radioactive isotopes is closely allied with important ventures into tracer chemistry and biology, as found in agricultural research already in progress. Experiments are being conducted by mixing phosphorous isotopes with fertilizer and taking tests as plant life develops in order to trace the course of the radioactive material through the plant.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK . . . New York City, which takes most untoward events in its metropolitan stride, nevertheless was forced to its knees when the heaviest snowfall since the blizzard of 1888 smothered the big town. The 25.8 inches of snow that fell in 16 hours crippled all surface transportation lines and caused an unprecedented rush on the subways. Thousands of office workers were marooned in their homes, which fact possibly pleased some of them considerably.

ANOTHER KIND OF SYMBOL . . . Although the Yule season is over for another year, the memory of one particular Christmas tree lingers in Washington. Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (Rep., Mich.) and Helen Boyer are shown as they finished decorating the congressman's "international Christmas tree" outside his office. Sign on the tree reads, "Nothing for the home folks. They've sent it all abroad." Hoffman said the "international tree" with no presents under it is his answer to the Marshall plan.

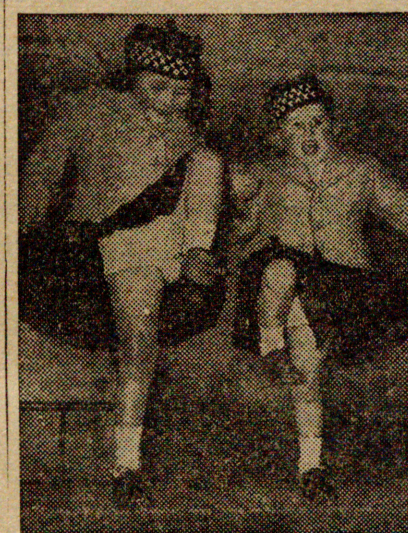

AT HOME IN A TENT . . . Just as a reminder that the housing shortage is not a dead issue, here is a family that has been living in a tent for more than a month this winter. Evicted from their former home in Bainbridge, Md., Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Flowers and their children set up housekeeping in a big army tent. With wintry winds whistling through the flaps, the Flowers use a ton of coal a week in their heater and cook stove to keep warm.

BULGARIAN . . . Dr. Nissim Judasy Mevorah, a member of the Bulgarian Communist party, has just had his credentials accepted by President Truman as Bulgaria's first postwar minister to the U. S.

KING IS DEAD . . . Victor Emmanuel III, former king of Italy, shown here in happier days with his stately Queen Elena, died in exile in Alexandria, Egypt, at the age of 78. He first ascended the throne in 1900 and relinquished it on June 5, 1944, day after the Allies occupied Rome.

HALF-PINT SCOTS . . . Highland flingers Lorraine and Michael Ross kick up their kilts aboard the Queen Mary in celebration of their reaching the United States. Their Scottish outfits are complete and authentic.

EXTRA INNINGS . . . Connie Mack, baseball's grand old man, boss of the Philadelphia Athletics, blows out the candles on his cake as he celebrates his 85th birthday anniversary. He aspires to make his team a pennant contender in 1948.

BOUQUET . . . Everybody relax. Margaret Truman's concert tour is over. The end came as she caught a bouquet of flowers after finishing a final concert at Constitution hall in Washington. Among the audience of 4,000 was her father, Harry S.

NEW JOB . . . Bleriot H. Lamarre, who figured prominently in recent senate investigation as alleged dummy president of Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers' manufacturing plant, has a new job—as a gas station attendant.

THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS

By WILLIAM C. FORD

THE bank examiners were coming Monday. And Blake needed five thousand dollars.

He checked over some of his personal papers again as he sat in the President's office of his bank. No use! Nothing he could realize on right now. Good enough later, but no good to him before Monday.

His buzzer rang, and he put the papers away hastily. It was Carter, his cashier.

"Mr. Steinberg is here, Mr. Blake," said Carter on the extension phone. "He wants to renew his note again. He says it would break him to pay it now but he'll be on his feet in two months. I told him I'd have to speak with you."

Carter had been with him long, but he didn't take much responsibility.

"Let him renew it," said Blake. And he hung up.

He ran the pencil down his private papers again. No use. "Got to do something," he told himself.

He picked up his hat and hurried out.

On the street in front of the Lawyers' building he met Carter's daughter. A slender girl, she was, with fine hair, and skin, and a flush on each cheek that heightened as she came toward him.

"You're looking fine, Doris," he greeted her.

"Good morning, Mr. Blake. Oh, I'm feeling first rate, thank you," she said.

He looked at her. "Not overdoing, are you? What'd that doctor tell you this time?"

The girl set her mouth into a smile. "Oh, he was all right," she said. "Always has that silly notion about my going away for a while. But I told him I couldn't leave father. He says I'm doing fine."

Blake tapped her shoulder. "Cheer up, Doris. We'll fix it," he said. "Take it easy, as he told you."

Blake waved goodbye and swung into the doorway of the Lawyers' Building where his foster son Ernest practiced law.

Blake had brought up Ernest and educated him and started him out. Now Ernest was building a reputation as a two-fisted, hard-fighting jury lawyer.

"Hello, Governor," said Ernest. "What can I do for you?"

"Plenty," said Blake. "Plenty today. You know that five thousand dollar fund I set up for you when you were 21? Well, I want it for a little while — need some money in a hurry."

Ernest stopped on his way to the swivel chair behind his desk.

"That five thousand!" he exclaimed. "Why governor — you gave me that outright! I've made my plans on that — I — What do you want it for?"

"Does that make any difference?"

"Well — it might — the way I'm fixed."

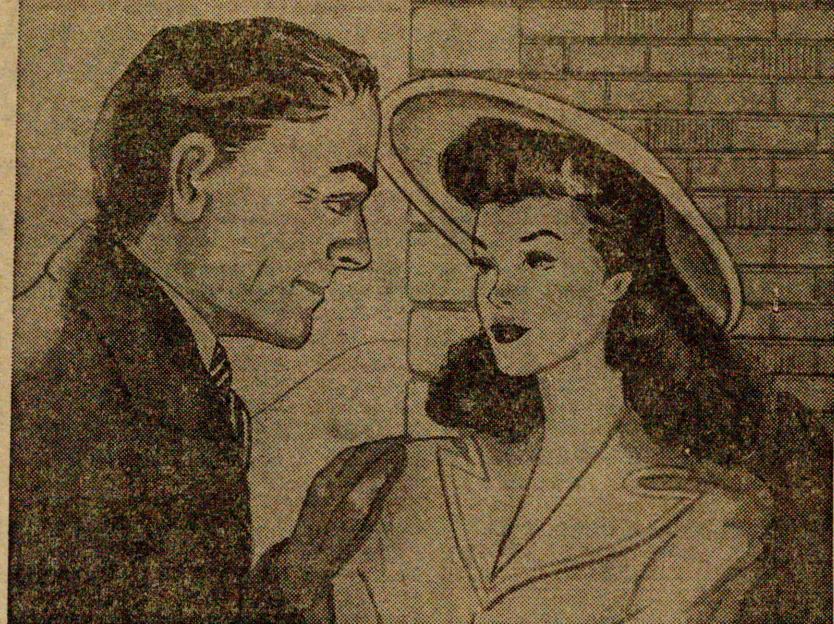

"All right then, if I must say it. It isn't everywhere I could go. I happen to need it in a hurry — The bank examiners are coming Monday."

"The bank examiners," said Ernest softly, and Blake saw the lines harden round his mouth.

"What I mean, Ernest — I'm not in a position to tell you the details. I tell you I need it — that ought to be enough."

Ernest straightened. "Of course. But right is right. I've got my principles, Governor, and I've got a right to know if you've done something illegal."

Blake's eyes narrowed as he watched him.

"O. K. Ernie," said he. He rose. "Wait a minute, Governor," said Ernest. "Try to see it my way. I'm trying to do what's right. I can't go against my principles. You wouldn't want me to do that. I've noticed things lately, Governor — and I've felt for a long time I ought to talk to you about them."

Blake sat down. "Go ahead!" said he.

Ernest put the tips of his fingers together.

"Well, first, you're too easy going, Governor. You're not hard boiled enough for a banker. This being in a hole now proves it. Your borrowers know you'll always help them. You've got to get hard boiled."

Blake took a deep breath, and got up.

"All right, Ernest," said he. "Be hard boiled! That's that. The leopard ought to change his spots. Much obliged."

He started for the door.

"Hold on! There are a couple more things, while we're on it," Ernest held up a hand.

"All right, Ernest," Blake told him. "Let's have them."

"That daughter of Carter's — I saw you from the window when you met her just now. And you're old enough to be her father. She's crazy about you. Everybody knows it."

Blake smiled.

"Well, Ernie," he said. "I feel a bit flattered. Of course it's only a passing notion, if it's there at all; she'll get over it mighty quick. But she's a fine young woman, Ernest. Keeps house for her father now and has taken great care of him since her mother died."

"She's too good to him," Ernest snapped. "Better if she tried to get him to work out of his rut and make something of himself."

Blake got up.

"Don't be so righteous, Ernest," he said from the doorway.

He walked back to the bank. It was after hours. Carter was gone. No one was there.

Blake went over to the drawer by the cashier's cage, where the revolver was kept. He took it out and fumbled with it for a minute. Then he put it back.

He went to his private box and took out a life insurance policy. He studied it a while and slipped it into his pocket. He started for the street door.

Blake found Tom Martin, the insurance man, in his office. He tossed the insurance policy to him.

"I want to surrender that," he said. "Just what is the surrender value?"

Martin looked at it. "Five thousand dollars," said he. "A little over. But, Mr. Blake, you've been paying for this for Ernest for years and years. I couldn't advise you to surrender it now — why look — let me explain." He reached for pamphlets and tables.

Blake stopped him. "Where do I sign?" he asked.

"Here, Mr. Blake," said Martin. "If you really insist."

"I really do," said Blake. "Ernest can take care of himself first rate now."

On Friday Martin brought the insurance check and Blake cashed it at Carter's cage. After that he went into the vault. He came out in a minute and went to his office. Then he rang for Carter.

Carter came in, bent, lined with worry, pale.

"John," said Blake. "The bank examiners will be here on Monday."

Carter's hands closed. His forehead was wet.

"Yes, Mr. Blake," he said. Blake stood up.

"It's all right, John," he said. "Don't worry any more. I've just put that five thousand in the vault. Your cash will balance when they come."

Carter staggered and his face whitened.

"You knew, Mr. Blake?" he faltered.

"Yes," said Blake. "I knew. Of course I knew. It's my business to know. And I saw how hard you tried to put it back, too."

Carter held one hand in the other to stop their trembling.

"Oh, I've tried," he said. "I've prayed. It wasn't for myself, Mr. Blake. It was for Doris. She's been so — brave — The doctor said there's a spot on her lung — and she must go to a high dry place — and I — thought —"

"All right, John," said Blake. "All right. I've known all about that, too. Of course you can't stay here — you can't work in a bank any more — But you'll resign after the examiners O. K. everything. And I've got you another kind of a job — in Arizona — I'll tell you about it later. You can pay me back when you get on your feet. And Doris will be all right now. The air's clear and dry in Arizona. In no time at all we'll be hearing she's married some fine young Westerner."

Carter's lips were moving.

"Thank you — thank you," he was saying. "It's the — the Mercy of God. I can't tell you, Mr. Blake. I can't —"

"Sure," said Blake. He put his hand in his pocket and dropped six cartridges on the desk.

"Load that revolver again now, John," he said. "I saw you looking at it the other day, and I thought I'd better —"

Carter picked up the cartridges and turned to the door. He stopped again with his hand on the knob.

"You're a good man, Mr. Blake," he said humbly.

Blake went out.

Blake looked at the grease that had been left on his hand by the cartridges.

"I wonder," said he.

Our Relationship to God

Lesson for January 18, 1948

THE Scripture lesson for Sunday is John 4:5-26 and Romans 8:12-17 and 31-33, with the 103rd Psalm as the devotional reading.

The passage in John presents the dramatic story of Jesus meeting with the woman from Sychar at Jacob's well, and of her discovery of the Water of Life.

There is no more convincing evidence anywhere in the Bible of Jesus as the one and only approach to God. He is the Door through which one must pass into the Kingdom, whether bond or free, rich or poor, ignorant or learned, high or low. "I am the truth and the life and the way."

Gay Nineties Are Staging Comeback

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Shades of Grandma! History repeats itself — pantaloons and camisoles will be back in style this spring, West Coast fashion experts say.

They predict that these ruffly feminine garments will be as popular for spring wear in 1948 as they were back in Grandma's day.

Pretty pantaloons of cotton will give another ruffle to show beneath wide-cut skirts. And bloomers are back, too, ruffled all over. These probably will be worn under active sports dresses and play clothes. Both dress and sportswear markets are showing versions of these fashions for resort and spring.

Crisp, wide petticoats will be worn to increase the width of flaring skirts. They'll be made of starched cotton print fabrics, the color of the print picking up the color of the dress with which it is worn.

'EVERLASTING' MATCH? HERE'S LIGHT ON IT!

GARY, IND.—A new "patent-suppression" yarn, used as the basis for a fresh attack on the American patent system, has drawn the fire of National Patent Council.

Such suppression stories appear frequently, the council said, most of them based on the false premise that patents can be kept secret by their owners. All details of an invention must be revealed for inclusion in the patent before the patent can issue. Copies of all patents are obtainable by anyone for 25 cents each from the U. S. Patent Office.

The "everlasting" match story is the latest to be used as an argument for major changes in the Patent System, vital nerve center of American industry, apparently without much investigation. Here is the story as presented.

tion:

"The latest exposure of how monopolists control: A man named Ringer developed an everlasting match which can be struck again and again, making it unnecessary to keep on buying matches. It now becomes public that the Swedish match trust bought up the patent and has suppressed it. The Patent Office and patent laws need reform to prevent such suppression of patents."

But here, says the council, is the true story of the Ringer "everlasting match":

Dr. Ferdinand Ringer, a transplanted Austrian, invented the chemical ignitable match. He is the same Dr. Ringer who more recently concocted the plastic bubble balloon. The match patent was sold to the Swedish Match company and for several years Holland and Switzerland had quite a vogue of "everlasting" matches. A leading American match company was approached and urged to manufacture them. A few of the matches have been tried here, according to report. It is sold in American novelty stores where they are displayed alongside explosive cigars and squirting ladel flowers.

Nearly two years ago, when the international match cartel was shaken apart, the durable chemical match patents were thrown open to the American public. Dozens of inquiries reached the patent bureau from would-be manufacturers.

Then the whole affair blew out. A national association of manufacturers said recently in Washington: "We don't know of anyone who is making or selling everlasting matches."

The field is wide open. Any individual or corporation now can manufacture the chemical matches, if he wishes, at no cost for royalties.

"Apparently," says National Patent Council, "no one sees an opportunity for profit in them—which means they are not sufficiently serviceable to be attractive to the public. That fact, not suppression, has kept the everlasting match off the market. So far, the council has been unable to verify a single claim that any invention has been deliberately suppressed."

SEE FREEDOM TRAIN;

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

As the Freedom Train clanked across the nation, Gallup pollsters trailed it asking people: "What event in U. S. history would you most like to have seen?"

Tops (with a 13 per cent vote) among would-be time-tourists was the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Next came Lincoln's delivery of the Gettysburg Address and the Japanese surrender aboard the USS Missouri (tied with 4 per cent); A-bomb No. 1 over Hiroshima; the Pilgrims' landing; the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation and the Constitutional convention of 1787.

Some unbook-minded stalwarts held out for the Yale-Dartmouth football game of 1931. But by far the biggest group of all answered: "Couldn't choose just one."—Pathfinder.

Take time to save time

Have you ever mapped—with pins and thread, or with pencil on paper—the daily "chore route" of your farm or ranch? Have you figured how much back-tracking you do, how many unnecessary extra steps you walk in a day? Have you taken time to save time, and steps, and labor?

A number of agricultural colleges and experiment stations have made practical work studies on farms and ranches, with some astounding results. For example, one dairy farmer (who thought himself pretty efficient) adopted improved machine milking techniques, rearranged his barn to save steps and time in feeding and watering. He saved himself two miles of walking per day, cut his daily chore time by two hours and five minutes. That's 730 miles of walking and 760 hours of work in a year. In making the changes, he spent less than $50.

Indiana tells of farmers who, by planning their work, are raising hogs with one quarter their former hours of labor... There's a report of men making hay in 90 man-minutes per ton; while others using similar equipment—but older, harder ways of working—spend twice that time... There are scores of other examples.

Perhaps you cannot make such great savings in your operations. Maybe you can make more. It's certainly worth looking into, for even little savings are important. Five steps saved a day makes a mile in a year. Five minutes a day gives you three extra days a year.

There's no master plan to fit every farm and ranch, because no two are exactly the same. You have to work out your own plan of improvement. But the time it takes may well be the most profitable time you've ever spent.

A four-step scheme is suggested. First, consider each job or chore separately. Break it down into its parts. Check each part with a watch or tape measure and see if steps or time can be saved. Second, compare your work methods with those of your neighbors. Third, examine and check the details of your work methods. Fourth, develop and apply the new method. In a nutshell, "Plan your work and work your plan."

Time studies and job analysis have helped Swift & Company increase efficiency and make important savings. That's why we so confidently suggest similar studies in your operations. One excellent bulletin on the subject is Number 307, published by Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. It's interesting reading and well worth writing for. Your county agent or state agricultural college can tell of other bulletins on the same subject.

Martha Logan's Recipe for HAM LOAF

(Yield: One 8 1/4 x 4 1/4 x 2 3/4 inch loaf)

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 3/4 pound ground ham | 1/4 teaspoon pepper |
| 1 1/2 pounds ground fresh pork | 1 cup milk |
| 2 eggs | 1/2 cup brown sugar |
| 1 cup dry bread crumbs | 1 tablespoon dry mustard |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 2 tablespoons vinegar |

Beat eggs. Combine meats, eggs, crumbs, salt, pepper, and milk. Mix thoroughly. Form into loaf in 8 1/4 x 4 1/4 x 2 3/4 inch loaf pan. Combine sugar, mustard, and vinegar. Spread over meat. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour, or until meat has reached an internal temperature of 185° F.

Track Down the Facts

A great family "man" is Fiber Zibethicus, better known to American farmers as the muskrat. He raises his many offspring in marshes, and about streams, lakes and ponds. Muskrat tracks are easily recognized by the drag of his knife-like tail, which shows up well in soft mud.

The muskrat-trapper works hard to make a living out of muskrat skins, and generally his efforts are rewarded. But there is one fact about his business that he tracked down long ago. He knows the price he can get for muskrat skins depends on the popular demand for finished pelts.

In the business of processing livestock into meat for people's use, we at Swift & Company have to keep track of the demand for meat everywhere in the nation. We must know, too, the weights and grades of cuts preferred by housewives. Experience has taught us that the price the producers receive for their livestock is governed by what the meat packers can get for the meat and by-products.

How to Save More Pigs

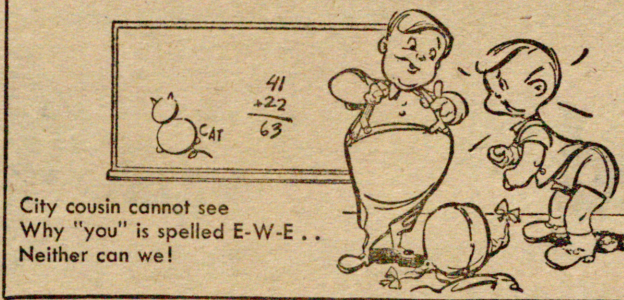

On the average, 44 out of every 100 pigs farrowed in the U. S. A. die before market time, according to North Dakota State College of Agriculture. Of these, 27 are dead at birth or die during the first ten days because they are weak, chilled, crushed, crippled or infected with disease at birth. Much of this loss can be prevented by proper care, as follows:

Balance the sow's ration. In addition to the mineral mixture, a sow should receive ground alfalfa hay or other green leafy hay up to 20% of the ration. Provide protein supplement of animal source, such as skim milk, or meat or bone meal. To prevent hairless pigs, feed iodine, in stabilized form, in the salt or mineral.

The sow should be given plenty of exercise and should be outside each day. She will get additional exercise if fed some distance from her quarters. Have a comfortable and clean farrowing pen with guard rails and an electric brooder, where possible. Wash the sow's udder with soap and water and remove all mud and dirt before she is put in the farrowing pen. Have a man on hand at farrowing time. A little attention at this time will save many pigs.

Prevent anemia by feeding a mineral containing iron and by supplying clean dirt to the young pigs. Keep young pigs off ground utilized by pigs the preceding year. Start creep feeding pigs a balanced ration at two weeks.

OUR CITY COUSIN

City cousin cannot see Why "you" is spelled E-W-E. Neither can we!

Farmer's Choice—When I was in high school, I spent a summer vacation on my grandfather's farm in Indiana. From my city-bred standpoint, his seemed a particularly dull and unrewarding life. Rising before dawn and working till after dusk, with little or no opportunity for urban pleasures, he was an object of pity to my adolescent eye. Why didn't he sell his farm and move to town? How did he ever get into this rut in the first place? "Grandpa," I asked one evening at milking time, "Why did you become a farmer, anyway?"

He paused a moment, leaned back on his stool and looked slowly around the barn—at the livestock, at the huge hayrack in the east corner, at the farm tools, at the broad beams that supported the roof. What he saw seemed to reassure him, and I shan't forget his answer: "Just lucky, I guess."

The American Way

In the livestock-meat industry, as in all American business, profit provides the basic incentive for work, enterprise and action. Profit makes the mare go for livestock producers, meat packers and retailers. Too little profit by one section creates an imbalance in the industry. If one part of the livestock-meat industry suffers continued loss, all of us are hurt in the long run.

However, a margin of profit fair to one section of the livestock-meat industry might be quite unfair to another. For instance, we at Swift & Company know perfectly well that both livestock producers and retailers require a higher margin of profit, because of their relatively small volume. On the other hand, nationwide meat packers must build up a tremendous volume of sales to make up for a very small margin of profit per unit—a margin that has been consistently lower than that earned by any other manufacturing industry in America.

Over a period of years, Swift & Company has earned, on the average, less than two cents on each dollar of sales (a fraction of a cent per pound of product handled). Over the same period, the average amount returned to producers for agricultural raw materials, including livestock, wool and hides, has been 75 cents out of each dollar we received. This is not a profit. Out of this 75 cents producers must pay the cost of production.

Whether livestock prices are high or low or whether meat is high-priced or inexpensive—Swift & Company can earn a reasonable profit only by adding together many tiny savings on a large volume of business.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Who Are We, Anyway?

Subject came up at Bill Webster's, the other day, as we were chatting over beer and pretzels. Just who are the folks who make up our town? Where'd they come from?

Well, Doc Hollister's Scotch-English ancestry; Will Dudley's folks were mining stock from Pennsylvania; Skip Powell's family were brewers back in Holland.

Guess our bloodstream's got a bit of every country of the globe—and every sector of America. We've still got differences in taste and background—whether they apply to music, history, or beer. Only those differences don't matter—because we're self-respecting people, in a free, united land.

And from where I sit, that's what makes our towns and cities—our America—so strong, progressive, tolerant. Our championship of individual liberties has brought us people from all faiths, all lands—to prove that respect for one another's rights is the greatest bond humanity can know!

GENERAL BRADLEY WAITS; TWO-STAR BRASS DOESN'T
Thousands of Army-Navy football fans milled around Washington's Union station. They were waiting for seats on special cars bound for the annual classic in Philadelphia, says Pathfinder.

Through the mob strode a two-star general, pushing aside the common herd to win preferential admission to the train. To a shy, khaki-clad figure in the rear of the crowd, a civilian friend suggested he do the same.

"No", smiled four-star Gen. Omar Bradley, soon to become the Army's No. 1 officer. "I'll wait..."

FALSE SOS ALARM

FOOLS RESCUERS
Faint, intermittent distress signals kept humming out of the speaker at the Civil Aeronautics communications center in New York. Fifty U. S. and Canadian stations put a "fix" on the signal.

Rescue planes sped toward a Hagerstown, Md., airport. Inside a hangar rescuers found a mechanic merrily twirling the handle of a surplus "gadget" he'd just bought. It was the kind of automatic signal-radio pilots use to send their SOS when forced down during combat.—Pathfinder.

BUBBLE GUM IS FOUND HARMFUL

CHICAGO — Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, Cook county health director, says about this time of year many people contract colds. If your youngster is getting a cold, take away his bubble gum, the medical expert advises.

It appears that when pressure is applied such as blowing a bubble, it forces the infection into the middle ear, and may cause all sorts of complications. In one township school, the doctor found nine youngsters in one day complained of earaches. Investigation developed all had been chewing and blowing — bubble gum.

KENNY DRIVE YIELDS TO POLIO FUND

To avoid interference with the March of Dimes drive, which is conducted annually from January 16 through January 31 by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, the Sister Kenny Foundation stopped its fund-raising activity in Illinois on January 10 according to an announcement by Arnold M. Johnson, Illinois Treasurer of the Kenny organization.

Mr. Johnson, a vice president of the City National Bank of Chicago, said that $27,500 had been received at the foundation's state headquarters since the drive opened November 24, but that results would approach $100,000 after collections had been received from chairmen in various parts of the state. Collections, he said, would be resumed in the spring to complete the foundation's $354,000 state quota.

He stated that the educational phase of the drive had been successful and instructions on how to secure the unmodified Kenny treatment had been put into 500,000 Illinois homes through direct mail and other means. Between now and spring, Mr. Johnson said, the Sister Kenny Foundation will proceed with its plan to open a polio treatment center in Chicago at the earliest possible date and will strive to perfect organization in the state to assure the success of its fund drive.

Until the Chicago clinic is opened, the treasurer said, the recently opened Sister Kenny clinic at Centralia, will be open to all new polio victims in the state regardless of race, creed, or financial status.

FIRST in Truck Production in 1947—according to published production figures.

FIRST in Passenger Car Sales in 1947—according to incomplete but conclusive sales records.

FIRST in Truck Sales in 1947—according to incomplete but conclusive sales records.

FIRST to Produce over a Million Cars and Trucks in a postwar year, 1947—according to published production figures.

FIRST in Total Passenger Car Production and Sales for the total 17-year period, January, 1931 to January, 1948—according to published nation-wide figures.

FIRST in Total Truck Production and Sales for the total 17-year period, January, 1931 to January, 1948—according to published nation-wide figures.

FIRST in Total Number of Cars and Trucks on the road today—according to official nation-wide registrations.

WE, YOUR LOCAL CHEVROLET DEALER—and every other Chevrolet dealer in America—are both proud and happy to make the following report to buyers and prospective buyers of Chevrolet products:

Again in 1947, Chevrolet built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker in the industry, just as Chevrolet has built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker for the total seventeen-year period, dating from January, 1931 to January, 1948—the modern period of motor car history.

Naturally, we as well as the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors are deeply grateful for America's outspoken preference for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks; and we are determined to do everything in our power to continue to deserve this preference in the future as in the past.

We want to thank each and every person in this community for his friendship and goodwill for this organization. We solicit and appreciate your patronage. We are doing our level best to prove that, by filling orders for new Chevrolets just as promptly as we can—even under today's trying conditions—and we are deeply and doubly appreciative of the patience and understanding of all our customers who are awaiting deliveries of new Chevrolets.

Needless to say, you buy wisely when you buy the product of the world's largest producers of cars and trucks, for that is the way to maximum dollar value! Rest assured that we'll fill your order for a new Chevrolet just as soon as it is humanly possible to do so. Meanwhile, please let us help to keep your present car or truck in good running condition by bringing it to us for skilled service, now and at regular intervals.

This Month in Your Service BULLETIN

'Tis the beginning of the New Year and we present our Readers with our customary Almanack for the next twelvemonth. The Year of our Lord 1948 being the Bissextile or Leap-Year, our Admonitory discourses (which follow the monthly verses borrowed from other Almanack-Makers) are addressed chiefly to the Single Members of the Fair Sex. The pages are adorn'd wittily with cuts by Mister McKee.

As Entertaining As Your Favorite Magazine
THE Service BULLETIN

COURTEOUS READER. This being the Bissextile or Leap-Year, my discourses which follow the verses borrowed from other Almanack-Makers are dedicated chiefly to the Fair Sex.

JANUARY It's time to marry When the sun sets on the sea. BEY PROVERB Great attention to be expected in the matter of meeting. The winter has been the worst. Since 'tis now proper for a maid to go a-courting during Leap-Year, she who wishes to secure a husband & an agreeable end to her life should take hold of this rare Opportunity.	FEBRUARY Happy the country That has any young man. POOR RICHARD St. Valentine's Day highly auspicious. While addressing the gentlemen of thy choice, prefer remembrance to blots. And then a word which does more agreeably where the beaming (to lasting) resources (personally brought on by thy year's confusion) than the good love lamp.	MARCH A maid all eyes, a piece of work. Are diamonds & all held in store. BEY PROVERB Many great expectations founded last year when the girl met at this time of year not to place too early for her fate of Fate, so it behooves a girl never to propose too early in the course of love.	APRIL Alas, the hopes of early Spring Sometimes vanish, then look again! BEY PROVERB Many great expectations founded last year when the girl met at this time of year not to place too early for her fate of Fate, so it behooves a girl never to propose too early in the course of love.	MAY While young people gather flowers and merriment Let them beware of the snake in the grass. POOR PROVERB Beware of treachery. Do not trust too far thy friend, for the grey old man may be the very one that would long. So before every young man with thy love, turn to the contrary side to honey (sugar, merriment, pleasure, & such like) that thou wilt elude & delight his eye.	JUNE He that has not got a wife Is not a complete man. POOR RICHARD Bachelors become Bachelors. If thy gallant does not follow thee through, only thou must stay & await his progress. Be thou so persuasive (as the fallow & plowman) that thou mayest possibly get the biggest will take an honest ear to thee.	JULY A man of words and not of deeds Is like a garden full of weeds. POOR PROVERB Chances companion with conduct. For each has part to be seen speaking but & counter speaks. Take care that the gentleman thou hast used with high estimation & public display do not shun thy hand, neither respect.	AUGUST 'Tis better to have a man without money Than money without a man. SMALL TOWNS, U.S.A.

Rural Life Program Seeks Improved Standards of Living

By EARLE HITCH

Released by WNU Features.

Concerted action aimed to develop an improved rural life must be launched on a widespread scale if small town America is to survive. That is the motivating factor behind the rural life movement, an energetic program which now is getting under way throughout America and which eventually will attempt to reach all small towns and rural communities of the nation.

Aim of the program is a better rural life—an attempt to make the country a better place in which to live and work. Rural problems have been discussed for years, and various solutions have been proposed. Experience has shown that the best results come from local action, planned by the people on their home grounds.

Aroused Citizenry Needed.

Before action can be expected, community consciousness has to be aroused. There must be determination to act. Then plans have to be made. The plans that do the most good are made to fit the local situation. All rural communities do not need the same things, nor can they go about getting what they do need in the same ways.

The rural life program is simply this—a recognition that the nation needs to add new features to its rural economy. This is because the types of rural labor are changing. Machinery has changed farming, and in some areas farm land has worn out. Some men who once worked at farming are having to turn to other occupations.

The present system of farming is far out of balance. Too many farmers are living on slim fare. Of the 5,800,000 farmers in the United States only the top third are enjoying the present high-level incomes for agricultural produce. The lower third, about two million, are averaging no more than $400 a year. This sum does not provide an adequate standard of living for happiness and health.

Machinery is revolutionizing our farming system and our whole rural economy. Power is taking the place of men on U. S. farms, the plowman of old rapidly is vanishing from the scene.

States only the top third are enjoying the present high-level incomes for agricultural produce. The lower third, about two million, are averaging no more than $400 a year. This sum does not provide an adequate standard of living for happiness and health.

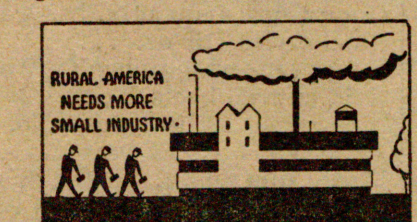

Cities, Too, Concerned.

From the standpoint of national stability there is urgent need for solutions which will prevent great numbers from being forced off the land. There is need to give those in the lower brackets encouragement and help to make them self sustaining. Growing numbers moving to cities add to job competition there, and make heavier unemployment risks in times of business slumps. Thus the cities as well as the rural areas have cause to be concerned.

Consequently leaders in public affairs are growing more disturbed as they witness:

1. The continuing shift of population from country to city.
2. The decline of the country church, which always has been a strong moral force in the nation.
3. A declining standard of living in many rural homes, from which comes the bulk of our population growth.

The government, acting through congress and the department of agriculture, has been giving help, and various organizations and agencies are following programs of their own. Among them are the Farm Bureau federations, the cooperatives, the Farmers' Union, the National Grange, and Protestant and Catholic churches acting through the town and country departments of the leading denominations.

Rural America needs new occupations and more small industries. New rural occupations must be developed to provide employment away from the fields.

Midnight Snacks Pay Collegian's Way

LAWRENCE, KAS. — Because college students still follow the old practice of nibbling late evening snacks while poring over studies, Elmo W. Geppelt, University of Kansas engineering student, is able to help finance his own education.

Geppelt, 24-year-old married veteran, decided last September that his fellow students would rather have food delivered than go out after it, so he went into the business of preparing the food and delivering it.

Income from farming is unevenly divided. Only the top third of the nation's 5,800,000 farmers are reaping the present high-level incomes for agricultural produce. The middle third are making about $900 a year while the lowest third average no more than $400 a year, according to estimates from census statistics based on 1944 reports.

All these organizations are agreed on general objectives. Briefly these objectives are:

1. To provide more opportunities for earning a good living in the country.
2. To establish better rural health and rural hospital services.
3. To provide more rural recreation and better uses for rural leisure.
4. To discover civic and cultural outlets that will add to a feeling of appreciation of the importance of country life and the country home.

The work to be done in this broad program does not concern farm people alone. Every small town has a stake in it. Whether the towns of the future grow in importance or languish depends on keeping a happy and satisfied population both in the towns themselves and the country roundabout.

Ways to do this are what the leaders of local community enterprise will have to discover. A knowledge of what has been done by communities that have made notable progress will be of interest to small communities everywhere, particularly those in a mood to do likewise.

Future articles in this series will tell about some outstanding small community programs.

Seamstress Cuts Police Uniforms And Tax Outlay

CHARLESTON, W. VA.—With her fast flying sewing machine, Mrs. Adana Summers is saving money for West Virginia taxpayers. Her job is to alter and make over uniforms worn by state police officers.

Each rookie trooper before going on duty receives $326.65 worth of clothing, including a number of articles discarded by older policemen. Mrs. Summers alters these leftovers to fit their new owners, at the same time checking to see that they are completely equipped with the buttons considered so essential to a smart looking officer.

Mrs. Summers, who worked as a machinist in an industrial plant during the war, admits that her job is sometimes tedious and exacting but insists that she prefers it to that of a secretary, taking shorthand notes or pounding the keys of a typewriter.

How well she is doing her job is shown in Capt. Harry C. Meyers' estimate that during a six-month period alterations and mending of uniforms saved West Virginia taxpayers approximately $2,000.

Doctor Includes Cows In 'Medical' Equipment

EUREKA, N. C.—Dr. Henderson Irwin, who insists he is just an old-fashioned country doctor, includes 34 cows in his "medical" equipment.

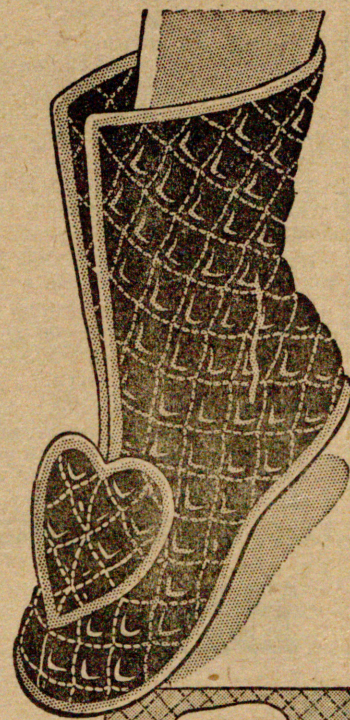

If a patient doesn't have a cow, the doctor lends him one. The patient gets the benefit of plenty of milk. The doctor gets a return on his investment in the form of all the calves.

"From a $150 cow I can sell the calf for $35, a good return," says Dr. Irwin.

Years of family practice have convinced him, the doctor says, that "a couple should be refused a marriage license unless they can say they have a bed, a stove and a cow."

Several centuries ago in Russia, many artists, when painting icons of sacred personages, employed a strange method in order to give complete individuality to each figure. They would first paint the skeleton, then add the body organs, then the skin and, lastly the clothes.

Harsh Laxatives are NOT necessary for most people

The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing on arising, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination. No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair nutrition! Lemon in water is good for you!

Generations of Americans have taken lemons for health—and generations of doctors have recommended them. They are rich in vitamin C; supply valuable amounts of B₁ and P. They alkalize; aid digestion.

Not too sharp or sour, lemon in water has a refreshing tang—clears the mouth, wakes you up. It's not a purgative—simply helps your system regulate itself. Try it 10 days. USE CALIFORNIA SUNKIST LEMONS

To Relieve Your Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of medicine that will please you by its quick action. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its quick action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

From Beauticians to Rat Catchers—All 'Engineers'

During a recent campaign to kill by ridicule the flagrant misuses of the word "engineer" in this country, lists compiled showed that it was being employed as a title by persons engaged in nearly 2,600 kinds of work, most of which had little or nothing to do with engineering, says Collier's. Among the many absurd titles were Pajama Engineer (manufacturer), Exterminating Engineer (rat catcher) and Appearance Engineer (beauty parlor operator).

SENATOR BROOKS URGES EXPERT AID FOR EUROPE'S ECONOMIC RECOVERY

American production experts from labor, agriculture, and industry should be sent to help start European production rolling, as an essential part of any foreign aid program, Senator C. Wayland Brooks (R-Ill.) said in a radio forum on the Marshall plan.

Declaring he was opposed to the Marshall plan as it stands, Senator Brooks asserted that the United States "should not attempt to subsidize socialist governments that foster and follow policies that stifle initiative and retard production."

"Under the Truman Administration," Senator Brooks declared, "the United States in 1947 has exported out of America goods and services at the rate of $19 billion a year. At the same time we imported at the rate of $8 billion a year. This $11 billion worth of excess exports of American goods, paid for by American money, has increased the cost of living to every American citizen."

The Illinois senator predicted that hard work and production on their own part "is the only salvation of Europe." "Europe needs leadership in production more than anything else," he said. "Production will form the only lasting bulwark against the spread of the misery of communism."

"This leadership should come from American experts administering a separate organization for this purpose, and not be manned by political hangers-on around government departments and bureaus."

"Congress," Senator Brooks declared "has no right to vote away the liberties of the American people. We have no right to vote away their finances unless the recipient people will cooperate with hard work and production to provide the goods their own people so badly need."

In Mokena, Ford's car and truck agency, Cooper & Hostert, announce open house for the new 1948 Ford truck, on the 16th.

Busch Motor Sales, Orland Park will have the new Ford truck on display at the open house all day Friday. The new trucks will be on display and the dealers will welcome everybody wanting a look at the new Ford product.

"Doctor Jim" is to be shown in Tinley Park on January 31. It's a movie starring Stuart Erwin. Sponsors are Mancke & Radcliffe, Tinley Park John Deere dealers, and the picture centers around a kindly country doctor and his wife. Place: Tinley Park school gymnasium. Time: 7:30.

Wilbur Mancke of Mancke and Radcliffe in Tinley Park spent December 29 and 30 at Ames, Iowa, where he conferred with the Iowa State college authorities on the control of weeds and corn borers with the use of chemicals. While much experimental work remains to be done, the results with regard to weed control in small grain and corn have been so conclusive that chemical spraying is now being widely used, it was stated at the Iowa meeting.

On Friday evening, January 9, Mr. Mancke, Mr. Radcliffe, Mr. Waterman, and Mr. Moss of the Tinley Park farm equipment store attended a special weed control meeting at Marengo, where the results of the recent mid-west weed control conference were discussed.

On January 21, Mancke and Radcliffe will have charge of the adult education class at the Bloom Township high school in Chicago Heights, with the control of weeds as the subject for discussion. Movies will be provided to show the latest developments in chemical weed control under all conditions, and the recommended types of equipment for doing the job. Complete details can be secured from Mr. Mayhew of the Bloom Township high school or from Mancke and Radcliffe.

Clarence Beagley, electrical household equipment merchant, Orland, recently was awarded a Bendix DeLuxe model washing machine in a contest involving sales methods used in "How to Sell" contest.

Another customer's freezer, he reports, was off 75 hours, but he kept the temperature at 18 degrees above zero by putting dry ice into the freezer.
